Golf Course Strategy - Practical Course

Management Instructions

This workbook teaches practical golf course strategy through visual scenarios. Each problem helps develop smart decision-making skills that every golfer needs on the course.

- Study each golf course scenario carefully before choosing.
- Consider all factors: distance, hazards, wind, and pin position.
- Think about the safest play vs the most aggressive option.
- Remember that smart course management lowers scores more than perfect swings.
- Build confidence by making good strategic decisions.
- Practice thinking like a course management expert.

Strategic thinking is the fastest way to improve your golf scores. Master these concepts and watch your game improve!

Table of Contents

- Section 1: Golf Course Basics: Reading the Layout
- Section 2: Club Selection: Distance and Trajectory
- Section 3: Tee Shot Basics: Fairway vs Distance
- Section 4: Greenside Shots: Around the Green
- Section 5: Simple Approach Shots
- Section 6: Bunker Avoidance and Strategy
- Section 7: Water Hazard Navigation
- Section 8: Wind Basics: Club Adjustments
- Section 9: Uphill and Downhill Lies
- Section 10: Pin Position Strategy
- Section 11: Recovery Shots: Getting Back in Play
- Section 12: Par 3 Strategy
- Section 13: Par 5 Strategy: Smart Three-Shot Planning
- Section 14: Dogleg Navigation
- Section 15: Firm vs Soft Course Conditions
- Section 16: Scoring Zone: 100 Yards and In
- Section 17: Pressure Situations: When it Matters
- Section 18: Course-Specific Strategy
- Section 19: Multi-Factor Decision Making
- Section 20: Personal Game Management

Parent Guidance: Golf Strategy

Welcome to Strategic Learning

Welcome to JPMETHOD Golf Strategy. This workbook helps your child develop strategic thinking, spatial awareness, and decision-making skills through golf course scenarios and shot planning exercises.

Learning Goals

Your child will develop these essential strategic skills:

- Building strategic thinking and course management skills
- Developing spatial awareness and distance visualization
- Learning to analyze golf course features and hazards
- Strengthening problem-solving and decision-making abilities
- Creating understanding of golf club selection and shot planning

Daily Practice Approach

Strategic thinking develops through consistent analysis and practice. Even 10-15 minutes per day helps children learn to evaluate situations and make thoughtful decisions. Focus on the thinking process rather than perfect answers.

Tracking Progress

Look for these positive signs of strategic development:

- Notice improved analytical thinking about course situations
- Celebrate better understanding of risk and reward decisions
- Watch for increased confidence in strategic planning
- Observe growing appreciation for course design and strategy
- Track development from simple to complex scenario analysis

Encouragement Strategies

Support your child's strategic learning with these approaches:

- Praise thoughtful analysis and reasoning, not just results
- Connect lessons to real golf courses and TV golf coverage
- Encourage discussion about different strategic options
- Celebrate discovery of creative solutions to course challenges
- Show how strategic thinking applies beyond golf

Common Strategy Learning Challenges

These areas often require extra patience and practice:

- Understanding three-dimensional course features from diagrams
- Learning golf terminology and club characteristics
- Balancing aggressive and conservative strategic choices
- Visualizing ball flight and landing areas accurately
- Developing patience for careful strategic analysis

Creating a Supportive Environment

Create a positive learning environment where strategic mistakes are learning opportunities. Golf strategy can seem complex initially, but regular practice builds analytical skills. Encourage watching golf together and discussing player decisions.

Connecting to Daily Life

Connect golf strategy to daily life through decision-making situations, spatial puzzles, and strategic games. Point out how strategic thinking applies to sports, planning, and problem-solving in many areas of life.

Remember: Strategy is About Thinking

Strategic thinking is a valuable life skill that develops through practice and reflection. Celebrate thoughtful analysis and encourage curiosity about how decisions affect outcomes. Your support makes the biggest difference in your child's strategic development.

Problem 1: Answer B

The green is always the target in golf. It's the lighter green oval with the flag. The darker green areas are fairway/rough, and hazards like bunkers and trees should be avoided.

Problem 2: Answer B

The green is always the target in golf. It's the lighter green oval with the flag. The darker green areas are fairway/rough, and hazards like bunkers and trees should be avoided.

Problem 3: Answer B

Sand bunkers (shown as tan/brown ovals) are hazards that make shots more difficult. Trees are also hazards, but the bunker is the most obvious hazard visible in this layout.

Problem 1: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 2: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 3: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 4: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 5: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 6: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 7: Answer A

The wedge's high trajectory easily clears the front bunker and stops quickly on the green.
Lower trajectories risk catching the bunker.

Problem 8: Answer A

The 9-iron's high trajectory safely clears the back bunker and lands softly on the green.
The lower trajectories risk hitting the bunker.

Problem 9: Answer A

The wedge's high trajectory easily clears the front bunker and stops quickly on the green.
Lower trajectories risk catching the bunker.

The wedge's high trajectory easily clears the front bunker and stops quickly on the green.
Lower trajectories risk catching the bunker.

Problem 1: Answer B

On narrow fairways, the 3-wood provides a good balance of distance and accuracy, keeping you in play while still advancing the ball.

Problem 2: Answer B

On narrow fairways, the 3-wood provides a good balance of distance and accuracy, keeping you in play while still advancing the ball.

Problem 3: Answer C

Drawing the ball around the dogleg shortens the approach and gives a better angle to the pin, even though it requires more precision.

Problem 4: Answer C

Drawing the ball around the dogleg shortens the approach and gives a better angle to the pin, even though it requires more precision.

Problem 5: Answer C

Drawing the ball around the dogleg shortens the approach and gives a better angle to the pin, even though it requires more precision.

On narrow fairways, the 3-wood provides a good balance of distance and accuracy, keeping you in play while still advancing the ball.

Problem 1: Answer A

With bunkers on both sides, the running chip keeps the ball low and in the middle of the green, reducing sideways error.

Problem 2: Answer C

With a front bunker and back pin, the lob wedge clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling too far.

Problem 3: Answer A

With a bunker behind the green, the low chip shot is safest - it won't fly long into the bunker and can roll to the pin.

Problem 4: Answer A

With a bunker behind the green, the low chip shot is safest - it won't fly long into the bunker and can roll to the pin.

Problem 5: Answer A

With a bunker behind the green, the low chip shot is safest - it won't fly long into the bunker and can roll to the pin.

Problem 6: Answer C

With a front bunker and back pin, the lob wedge clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling too far.

Problem 7: Answer A

With bunkers on both sides, the running chip keeps the ball low and in the middle of the green, reducing sideways error.

Problem 8: Answer C

With a front bunker and back pin, the lob wedge clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling too far.

Problem 9: Answer A

With bunkers on both sides, the running chip keeps the ball low and in the middle of the green, reducing sideways error.

With a front bunker and back pin, the lob wedge clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling too far.

Problem 1: Answer B

For a front pin with no hazards, the medium trajectory provides the right balance to land at the pin location.

Problem 2: Answer B

For a front pin with no hazards, the medium trajectory provides the right balance to land at the pin location.

Problem 3: Answer A

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 4: Answer A

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 5: Answer A

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 6: Answer A

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 7: Answer B

For a front pin with no hazards, the medium trajectory provides the right balance to land at the pin location.

Problem 8: Answer A

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 9: Answer A

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 10: Answer A

JPMETHOD GOLF COURSE STRATEGY

With a back pin and front bunker, the high trajectory safely clears the bunker and lands softly near the pin without rolling off the back.

Problem 1: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 2: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 3: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 4: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 5: Answer A

The high trajectory safely clears the front bunker and avoids the left-side bunker, providing the clearest path to the pin.

Problem 6: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 7: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 8: Answer A

The high trajectory safely clears the front bunker and avoids the left-side bunker, providing the clearest path to the pin.

Problem 9: Answer A

The high trajectory lands softly and won't run into the back bunker, even if slightly long.

Problem 10: Answer A

The high trajectory safely clears the front bunker and avoids the left-side bunker, providing the clearest path to the pin.
